OHLAB PROFILE

OHLAB is an office devoted to urban analysis and cultural research of contemporary society through design, architectural practice, and urban strategy. OHLAB has garnered significant recognition in recent years. The firm has been nominated twice for the Mies van der Rohe Award and received honors such as being named the Architecture Masterprize's Architecture Firm of the Year in 2022 and Interior Design Firm of the Year in 2019. Moreover, it was acknowledged as one of the top Spanish architecture firms in 2023 by Monocle, Architizer and Archello. Notably, it was previously highlighted as one of the six best emerging interior design studios by Dezeen, and some years ago, the Chicago Athenaeum described OHLAB as "one of Europe's most important emerging architects."

In 2019, OHLAB gained international acclaim for the transformation of Can Bordoy, a historic building turned hotel, which achieved over 20 design awards. Over the past two years, OHLAB has successfully completed various projects. These include constructing one of Spain's tallest Passivhaus residential buildings, a Nearly Zero Energy Building. This project has been awarded as the "Best Use of Certified Timber" at the World Architecture Festival. Additionally, OHLAB worked on a 3,000 m² residential project within a 13th-century historical building in Palma's old town, which is a finalist for the FAD awards. In total, these projects have received more than 15 awards and widespread recognition from architecture critics and design media on a global scale. Currently, the firm is actively engaged in multiple projects encompassing residential, hotel, and retail developments, including a hotel with LEED Platinum and Passivhaus certifications.

The office, led by Paloma Hernaiz and Jaime Oliver, was initially established in Shanghai in 2007, later relocating to Madrid, and currently operating from its main office in Palma de Mallorca. The team, consisting of 18 architects, interior designers, and building engineers, is engaged in a diverse range of projects.

OHLAB has received numerous awards for design excellence and sustainability from prestigious entities like Dezeen, Conde Nast, Monocle, INSIDE, AHEAD, and the Architecture Masterprize. Notable honors include the 2017 Best House of the Year Award from Architectural Record and multiple recognitions from the World Architecture Festival, WIN Awards, and Great Indoors Awards. Their work has been widely showcased in specialized and mainstream media outlets, including Monocle, Wallpaper, Architectural Record, Interior Design, Vogue, and The New York Times.

Before establishing their own practice, Paloma and Jaime accumulated nine years of professional experience in cities like New York, Shanghai, and Beijing, collaborating with renowned architectural firms such as OMA / Rem Koolhaas. They both hold diplomas in Architecture from ETSAM Madrid and ETSAB Barcelona, along with postgraduate degrees in Advanced Architecture from Columbia University in New York.

Furthermore, Paloma Hernaiz and Jaime Oliver have served as design educators for several years, contributing their expertise to institutions such as the IE School of Architecture and IED Design Degree in Madrid, among others. They have also participated as critics in various design juries at prestigious universities like Princeton, Columbia University, and Universidad Europea in Madrid, and have presented lectures on their work at institutions worldwide, including the Universidad Politécnica de Catalunya, Universidad Europea de Madrid, and the Guggenheim Museum Bilbao.

PERFIL DE OHLAB

OHLAB es una oficina dedicada al análisis urbano y la investigación cultural de la sociedad contemporánea a través del diseño, la práctica arquitectónica y la estrategia urbana. La firma ha cosechado importantes reconocimientos en los últimos años, como la doble nominación para el Premio Mies van der Rohe, además de ser reconocida como mejor Firma de Arquitectura del Año por Architecture Masterprize en 2022 y Firma de Diseño de Interiores del Año en 2019. En 2023 fue incluido en el ranking de los mejores estudios de España en tres medios de referencia internacionales; la revista británica Monocle y las plataformas digitales Architizer y Archello. Cabe destacar que anteriormente fue destacado como uno de los seis mejores estudios emergentes de diseño de interiores por Dezeen, y hace unos años, el Chicago Athenaeum describió a OHLAB como "uno de los arquitectos emergentes más importantes de Europa".

En 2019, OHLAB obtuvo reconocimiento internacional por la transformación de Can Bordoy, un edificio histórico convertido en hotel, que logró más de 20 premios de diseño. En los últimos dos años OHLAB ha concluido varios proyectos, incluyendo uno de los edificios residenciales Passivhaus más altos de España NZEB (edificio de consumo energético casi nulo) y un proyecto residencial de 3,000 m² en un edificio histórico del siglo XIII en el casco antiguo de Palma, que fue finalista en los premios FAD. En total, ambos proyectos han recibido más de 15 premios y han sido reconocidos mundialmente por críticos de arquitectura y medios de diseño. Actualmente la firma está trabajando en múltiples edificios residenciales, hoteleros y comerciales, incluido un hotel con certificaciones LEED Platinum y Passivhaus.

La oficina, liderada por Paloma Hernaiz y Jaime Oliver, fue establecida originalmente en Shanghai en 2007, luego se trasladó a Madrid y actualmente opera desde su sede principal en Palma de Mallorca, donde un equipo de 18 arquitectos, diseñadores de interiores e ingenieros de construcción trabaja en una variedad de proyectos.

OHLAB ha recibido numerosos premios a la excelencia en diseño y sostenibilidad de prestigiosos medios como Dezeen, Conde Nast, Monocle, INSIDE, AHEAD y Architecture Masterprize. Entre los galardones más destacados figuran el Premio a la Mejor Casa del Año 2017 de Architectural Record y múltiples reconocimientos del World Architecture Festival, los WIN Awards y los Great Indoors Awards. Su trabajo ha sido ampliamente expuesto en medios de comunicación especializados y generalistas, como Monocle, Wallpaper, Architectural Record, Interior Design, Vogue y The New York Times.

Antes de establecer su propia oficina, Paloma y Jaime acumularon nueve años de experiencia profesional en ciudades como Nueva York, Shanghai y Beijing, colaborando con reconocidas firmas de arquitectura como OMA / Rem Koolhaas. Ambos son graduados en Arquitectura por la ETSAM de Madrid y la ETSAB de Barcelona, y poseen títulos de posgrado en Arquitectura Avanzada de la Universidad de Columbia en Nueva York.

Además, Paloma Hernaiz y Jaime Oliver realizan una labor de divulgación académica desde hace años, contribuyendo con su experiencia en instituciones como el IE School of Architecture y el IED Madrid, entre otros. También han participado como críticos en diversos jurados de diseño en universidades de prestigio como Princeton, Columbia University y la Universidad Europea de Madrid, y han impartido conferencias sobre su trabajo en instituciones de todo el mundo, incluyendo la Universidad Politécnica de Cataluña, la Universidad Europea de Madrid y el Museo Guggenheim de Bilbao.
